Police, fire, EMS, and military personnel attend a nighttime training exercise on the grounds of Bolling Air Force Base, Washington, in August 2018. (Staff Sgt. Pedro Melchor, U.S. Air Force) The Pentagon is finally being told about its secret predator drone operations in Yemen. Earlier this week, an independent panel of former lawmakers and government officials wrote to Defense Secretary Mark Esper requesting that the Pentagon provide details on its drone operations in Yemen, according to a report by the Committee to Protect Journalists. The letter was signed by former Sens. Russ Feingold and Tom Coburn; retired Sens. Barbara Boxer and Byron Dorgan; Sen. Jeff Sessions; former Rep. Jason Chaffetz; and former Rep. Walter Jones. It noted that U.S. drone attacks have killed civilians in the country. "In many parts of Yemen, including the cities of Zinjibar, Jaar, and Sanaa, the United States has launched a major air campaign of airstrikes using both 'signature' and 'sophisticated' weapon systems," the letter reads. "The strikes have almost certainly caused civilian casualties." The Yemen War Powers Resolution was passed by Congress in 1973 to require the president to notify lawmakers of military operations. But President Donald Trump has never done so. "This has been our longest war, and Congress hasn
